Official Order Ending Fight Issued By Government After Meetings

MARSHALL IS MEDIATOR

U. S. Envoy Participates In Conferences Which End With Truce Agreement

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 — The long awaited cease-fire order in China's civil war was issued officially today shortly before Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek convened the political consultative council and outlined a program for political freedom and democracy.

The order to cease hostilities was announced by government representative Gen. Chang Chun and Communist representative Gen. Chou En-Lai after a series of meetings with Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's special envoy to China. It has been approved by Chiang and Mao Tse-Tung, head of the Communist party.

The order provided for immediate establishment of executive headquarters at Peiping to carry out the agreements for ending hostilities.

Chiang announced the truce at the opening of the consultative council to prepare for a national assembly and drafting of a constitutional government.

The generalissimo outlined a four point program:

"1. People's freedom — for all people to enjoy all the freedoms, all anti-freedom laws and regulations will be abolished or revised.

"2. All political parties shall be equal and may conduct open activities within the limit of the law.

"3. Self-government shall be promoted from the bottom up.

"4. All political prisoners, except criminals, shall be released."

Chiang promised immediate government action on the program and urged the delegates to work hard toward the goal of achieving national unity.

Gen. Chou, arriving from the peace committee conference, addressed the council briefly.

"We not only want to stop the fighting," he said, "but we hope there will never be any more fighting in China among ourselves."

He said he welcomed Chiang's program and said the Communists hoped for democratization, nationalization of armed forces and equalization of political parties.

The cease-fire order directed immediate end of hostilities; stopping of troop movements except south of the Yangtze river and in Manchuria areas not involved in the conflict; restoration of communications; and the setting up of a Communist-Nationalist-U. S. commission to carry out the peace terms.

Copies of the order were issued immediately to all units of the regular Army, militia and irregular and guerrilla units of both sides. It was expected, however, there might be some delay in getting the order to troops in remote areas.

New Navy 'Phantom' Is Revealed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The Navy today revealed performance characteristics of a new all-jet, carrier-based fighter plane capable of flying over 500 miles an hour at an altitude of nearly 40,000 feet.

The new plane is known as the FD-1 or "Phantom." It has a range of approximately 1,000 miles and was designed for carrier interception work. It can be launched from a carrier catapault or make a deck, rocket-assisted takeoff.

The "Phantom" was designed and built for the Navy by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., St. Louis, Mo. An experimental model already has been flight-tested by the Navy and additional planes have been ordered.

Total weight of the new plane was given as less than 10,000 pounds. Climbing speeds were said to be "extremely high."

Power for the "Phantom" is furnished by twin axial-flow Westinghouse turbo-jet engines built into the plane's wing roots.

Complications Are Fatal To Harry P. Wolfe, 73, Early Thursday

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10—Harry P. Wolfe, 73, publisher of the Columbus Dispatch and vice president of the Ohio State Journal, died at 6:30 a. m. today. Death was caused by a complication of diseases, aggravated by a severe case of flu believed to have been contracted New Year's eve.

Wolfe, born in Cumberland, O., became a powerful figure in manufacturing, publishing, financial and real estate enterprises.

He came to Columbus in 1890, and with his older brother, Robert F., soon organized the business which grew into the Wolfe Wear-U-Well Shoe company.

In 1903 the two brothers entered the publishing business with acquisition of the Ohio State Journal, and two years later purchased the Columbus Dispatch.

The two brothers acquired banking interests which in 1929 were consolidated under the name of Bancohio, with total resources of $100,000,000.

The Wolfe interests now include radio station WBNS and its frequency modulation affiliate, WELD.

The Wolfe farms in Madison county include 5,537 acres, said to be the largest single farming operation east of the Mississippi. His Summer home, the Wigwam, has become nationally known as a center of activity for the Republican party.

Wolfe is survived by his three sons, Robert H., vice president of the Dispatch Printing company; H. Preston, assistant editor of the Dispatch, and Major Robert S., assistant president of Banohio.

RELIEF FROM HIGH WATER IS DUE IN SOUTH

By United Press

Relief from incessant rains that had forced rivers in the South out of their banks and accounted for at least 22 dead and millions of dollars worth of property, crop and livestock damage, was promised Thursday with a forecast of clearing skies and cooler weather.

Flood waters that had inundated thousands of rich acres of lowland were receding in some sections, but the death toll was placed at eight persons in Tennessee, six in Arkansas, six in Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennesse and Georgia. They estimated that at least 450 families were homeless in Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi, and that some 5,000 Kentucky residents had been forced from their homes.

Rising waters still played havoc with communication and transportation in the affected states.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Police arrested Frank Holland, 46, a dishwasher, early today when they found him in an alley near where Suzanne Degnan, 6, was kidnaped, slain and her dismembered body hidden in four cesspools.

Holland was arrested when he attempted to flee after police told him to halt. In his room, detectives found a newspaper from which a picture of the slain girl had been cut. Holland denied any connection with the case.

The arrest came as police attempted to fit a shiny new door key into the complex assortment of clues in the kidnap-murder.

Investigators must find evidence sufficient to place charges against two janitor-suspects before 4 p. m. today or they will be released by court order.

Soldiers In All Areas Want Quicker Trips Home Protest System

By United Press

Enlisted men on two Pacific editions of the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes complained today that they were being muzzled in their coverage of the worldwide soldier protest against demobilization policies.

A formal statement by the enlisted personnel of the Tokyo Stars and Stripes claimed that open pressure against them by officers had changed the paper into a "house organ for the war department."

The Honolulu Stars and Stripes staff said they had received orders not to print letters or stories which criticized "anyone in authority."

Protest meetings were reported from all quarters of the globe. A proposal was made by demonstrators in Hawaii that American occupation forces be restricted to former enemy territory.

High officers of the European headquarters in Frankfurt called a meeting of G.I. spokesmen and newspaper men to record the grievances aired by a crowd of more than 5,000 troops which tried to storm Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters last night.

The Tokyo Stars and Stripes statement claimed that the paper had been forced "to delete, distort and play down news to serve personal and professional interests of the Army hierarchy, and in many instances officers in general."

Everywhere the protesting troops demanded quicker trips home, clarification of policy and explanation why American soldiers were being kept in friendly territories.

The soldiers said they wanted to get out of China, Philippines, France and Hawaii. They demanded replacements in Japan and Germany so combat veterans could be demobilized.

Mass meetings continued in the Pacific and Europe. New agitation and protests were reported des-

BEHEADING OF YANK SOLDIER TOLD AT TRIAL

MANILA, Jan. 10—A Japanese officer beheaded an American soldier who collapsed during the Bataan death march and was unable to get up, Tech. Sgt. Horace M. Clark of Salisbury, Md., testified today at the trial of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Clark also told the U. S. military commission trying Homma for war crimes of the death of another American soldier killed by Japanese soldiers making a game of hitting prisoners on the heads with clubs.

He said the beheaded soldier was known to him only by the nickname "Smithy."

"Smithy, ill and weak from hunger, fell by the wayside," Clark said. "A Japanese officer following in an American car ordered him to get up and became angry when Smith could not make it. He drew his saber and beheaded Smithy with two strokes."

Clark said the marchers met Japanese soldiers coming in the opposite direction, carrying heavy wooden clubs and making a game of hitting the prisoners over the heads.

Steel and Meat Labor Picture Brighter But Phone Tieup Due Friday

By United Press

Government labor officials admitted new optimism today in attempts to avert seheduled walkouts in the steel and meat packing industries but feared a nationwide telephone paralysis within the next 24 hours.

With 389,000 U. S. workers already idle and another 2,000,000 threatening strike action, the major developments shaped up as follows:

1. Striking installation workers said they would set up picket lines tomorrow around 775 telephone exchanges from coast to coast. Members of the National Federation of Telephone Workers union have pledged to respect the lines.

2. CIO and U. S. Steel Corp. officials were to resume negotiations today after the government reportedly agreed to price increases of $4 to $5 a ton to help the corporation meet union wage demands. About 700,000 steelworkers are slated to strike Monday.

3. An unannounced price relief offer was made to two of the big meat packers which government officials hope will prevent a strike of 335,000 AFL and CIO meat workers, scheduled for Wednesday.

4. Members of the General Motors fact-finding panel expected to submit their recommendations to President Truman today for settling a strike of 175,000 CIO auto workers.

MRS. CLIFTON HURT IN CRASH

Wife Of Serviceman Is In Critical Condition After Auto And Taxi Collide

Mrs. Paul Diltz Clifton, 23, 229 Town street, was still unconscious in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon after suffering a possible skull fracture in an auto collision Thursday morning. Her condition was reported as "critical."

Mrs. Clifton, whose husband is a sergeant serving with the Army overseas, was injured when the Try-Me taxi cab in which she was a passenger was hit by a car driven by James Fouch, 20, sailor, of 156 Walnut street, Circleville police reported.

Fouch was arrested and is being held on a charge of reckless operation and for investigation. Police said that Mrs. Clifton was thrown out of the cab, slid along the pavement and that her head hit against the curb. The Fouch car hit the taxi knocking it clear around, police said.

The taxi, which was driven by Roy Bloomfield, 29, of 223 East Mill street, was going north and the Fouch car was coming from the south and turned left on Corwin in front of the taxi, causing the wreck, police stated.

Mrs. Clifton was given first aid treatment by Dr. Lloyd Jonnes and was then taken to the hospital in a Defenbaugh ambulance. She is being attended by Dr. V. D. Kerns.

WILSON PROPOSES BILL

Iowa Senator Wants Most Of Servicemen Discharged By April 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., demanded today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower be summoned before the senate military affairs committee to give a formal accounting of the Army's demobilization policies.

Johnson said snowballing "we-want-to-go-home" demonstrating by overseas GI's was "near mutiny" and constituted a "challenge to orderly government" which congress cannot ignore.

"The causes for this deplorable situation must be brought into the open," he said in a letter to committee chairman Elbert Thomas, D., Utah. "No American army must ever be permitted by congress to degenerate into a mob."

Johnson said the military affairs committee "owes it to congress, the people, and especially the men of the armed forces, to explore the whole question of demobilization once more."

He also said there should be a complete inventory of every man in the Army, every civilian employe of the war department and the "place and nature" of his employment as of Jan. 1, 1945.

Johnson's demands came amid these other developments in the fiery demobilization controversy:

1. Sen. George A. Wilson, R., Ia. announced he would introduce a bill next week which would discharge the great bulk of servicemen by April 1.

2. The Army, acting under orders of Eisenhower, the chief of staff, began combing its ranks for any unneeded men who could be returned to the United States at once.

Johnson was particularly concerned with the effect of the GI demonstrations on American prestige in other nations.

"What must our neighbors think of such an outrageous display of irresponsibility?" he asked Thomas. "The senate military affairs committee dare not ignore this challenge to orderly government."

Thomas so far has taken a "hands off" attitude on the argument. He pointed out that the committee already had checked the demobilization program. He said no further hearings were planned.

Eisenhower said yesterday that all men who could be spared should be returned to this country

OHIO EXPECTED TO CREST FRIDAY AT PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 10—The Ohio river continued to climb toward an expected peak of 48 to 50 feet today as city officials closed valves and started pumping stations. The crest was expected sometime early Friday.

Six electrically driven pumps are used in the flood defense system to care for sewage and surface water.

The flood stage here is 50 feet, but officials are confident the defenses will turn back a 65 foot stage.

The great flood wall last year kept out a stage of 64.09 feet.

U. S. route 52 to the west and Ohio route 73 to the northwest were closed to traffic when water submerged the "Y" road across the Scioto river bottom at the outskirts of the city.

Hundreds of residents of west Portsmouth, who work in Portsmouth, were cut off from their jobs by the high water. Backwater flooded hundreds of acres of Scioto valley farmland, but farmers said most of their corn crop had been husked.

Threat of a serious flood situation here is lessened by the fact that the Scioto is not contributing its usual avalanche of water. Other tributaries were also reported falling, including the Muskingum.

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 — The long awaited cease-fire order in China's civil war was issued officially today shortly before Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek convened the political consultative council and outlined a program for political freedom and democracy.

The order to cease hostilities was announced by government representative Gen. Chang Chun and Communist representative Gen. Chou En-Lai after a series of meetings with Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's special envoy to China. It has been approved by Chiang and Mao Tse-Tung, head of the Communist party.

The order provided for immediate establishment of executive headquarters at Peiping to carry out the agreements for ending hostilities.

Chiang announced the truce at the opening of the consultative council to prepare for a national assembly and drafting of a constitutional government.

The generalissimo outlined a four point program:

"1. People's freedom — for all people to enjoy all the freedoms, all anti-freedom laws and regulations will be abolished or revised.

"2. All political parties shall be equal and may conduct open activities within the limit of the law.

"3. Self-government shall be promoted from the bottom up.

"4. All political prisoners, except criminals, shall be released."

Chiang promised immediate government action on the program and urged the delegates to work hard toward the goal of achieving national unity.

Gen. Chou, arriving from the peace committee conference, addressed the council briefly.

"We not only want to stop the fighting," he said, "but we hope there will never be any more fighting in China among ourselves."

He said he welcomed Chiang's program and said the Communists hoped for democratization, nationalization of armed forces and equalization of political parties.

The cease-fire order directed immediate end of hostilities; stopping of troop movements except south of the Yangtze river and in Manchuria areas not involved in the conflict; restoration of communications; and the setting up of a Communist-Nationalist-U. S. commission to carry out the peace terms.

Copies of the order were issued immediately to all units of the regular Army, militia and irregular and guerrilla units of both sides. It was expected, however, there might be some delay in getting the order to troops in remote areas.

BEHEADING OF YANK SOLDIER TOLD AT TRIAL

MANILA, Jan. 10—A Japanese officer beheaded an American soldier who collapsed during the Bataan death march and was unable to get up, Tech. Sgt. Horace M. Clark of Salisbury, Md., testified today at the trial of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Clark also told the U. S. military commission trying Homma for war crimes of the death of another American soldier killed by Japanese soldiers making a game of hitting prisoners on the heads with clubs.

He said the beheaded soldier was known to him only by the nickname "Smithy."

"Smithy, ill and weak from hunger, fell by the wayside," Clark said. "A Japanese officer following in an American car ordered him to get up and became angry when Smith could not make it. He drew his saber and beheaded Smithy with two strokes."

Clark said the marchers met Japanese soldiers coming in the opposite direction, carrying heavy wooden clubs and making a game of hitting the prisoners over the heads.

Steel and Meat Labor Picture Brighter But Phone Tieup Due Friday

By United Press

Government labor officials admitted new optimism today in attempts to avert scheduled walkouts in the steel and meat packing industries but feared a nationwide telephone paralysis within the next 24 hours.

With 389,000 U. S. workers already idle and another 2,000,000 threatening strike action, the major developments shaped up as follows:

1. Striking installation workers said they would set up picket lines tomorrow around 775 telephone exchanges from coast to coast. Members of the National Federation of Telephone Workers union have pledged to respect the lines.

2. CIO and U. S. Steel Corp. officials were to resume negotiations today after the government reportedly agreed to price increases of $4 to $5 a ton to help the corporation meet union wage demands. About 700,000 steelworkers are slated to strike Monday.

3. An unannounced price relief offer was made to two of the big meat packers which government officials hope will prevent a strike of 335,000 AFL and CIO meat workers, scheduled for Wednesday.

4. Members of the General Motors fact-finding panel expected to submit their recommendations to President Truman today for settling a strike of 175,000 CIO auto workers.

5. The Telephone Traffic Union, another NFTW affiliate, announced long distance and manual service in Washington would be disrupted for an indefinite period beginnnig at 11 a. m. while operators met to discuss a local grievance.

MRS. CLIFTON HURT IN CRASH

Wife Of Serviceman Is In Critical Condition After Auto And Taxi Collide

Mrs. Paul Diltz Clifton, 23, 229 Town street, was still unconscious in Berger hospital Thursday afternoon after suffering a possible skull fracture in an auto collision Thursday morning. Her condition was reported as "critical."

Mrs. Clifton, whose husband is a sergeant serving with the Army overseas, was injured when the Try-Me taxi cab in which she was a passenger was hit by a car driven by James Fouch, 20, sailor, of 156 Walnut street, Circleville police reported.

Fouch was arrested and is being held on a charge of reckless operation and for investigation. Police said that Mrs. Clifton was thrown out of the cab, slid along the pavement and that her head hit against the curb. The Fouch car hit the taxi knocking it clear around, police said.

The taxi, which was driven by Roy Bloomfield, 29, of 223 East Mill street, was going north and the Fouch car was coming from the south and turned left on Corwin in front of the taxi, causing the wreck, police stated.

Mrs. Clifton was given first aid treatment by Dr. Lloyd Jonnes and was then taken to the hospital in a Defenbaugh ambulance. She is being attended by Dr. V. D. Kerns.

WILSON PROPOSES BILL

Iowa Senator Wants Most Of Servicemen Discharged By April 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., demanded today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower be summoned before the senate military affairs committee to give a formal accounting of the Army's demobilization policies.

Johnson said snowballing "we-want-to-go-home" demonstrating by overseas GI's was "near mutiny" and constituted a "challenge to orderly government" which congress cannot ignore.

"The causes for this deplorable situation must be brought into the open," he said in a letter to committee chairman Elbert Thomas, D., Utah. "No American army must ever be permitted by congress to degenerate into a mob."

Johnson said the military affairs committee "owes it to congress, the people, and especially the men of the armed forces, to explore the whole question of demobilization once more."

He also said there should be a complete inventory of every man in the Army, every civilian employe of the war department and the "place and nature" of his employment as of Jan. 1, 1945.

Johnson's demands came amid these other developments in the fiery demobilization controversy:

1. Sen. George A. Wilson, R., Ia. announced he would introduce a bill next week which would discharge the great bulk of servicemen by April 1.

2. The Army, acting under orders of Eisenhower, the chief of staff, began combing its ranks for any unneeded men who could be returned to the United States at once.

Johnson was particularly concerned with the effect of the GI demonstrations on American prestige in other nations.

"What must our neighbors think of such an outrageous display of irresponsibility?" he asked Thomas. "The senate military affairs committee dare not ignore this challenge to orderly government."

Thomas so far has taken a "hands off" attitude on the argument. He pointed out that the committee already had checked the demobilization program. He said no further hearings were planned.

Eisenhower said yesterday that all men who could be spared should be returned to this country

OHIO EXPECTED TO CREST FRIDAY AT PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 10—The Ohio river continued to climb toward an expected peak of 48 to 50 feet today as city officials closed valves and started pumping stations. The crest was expected sometime early Friday.

Six electrically driven pumps are used in the flood defense system to care for sewage and surface water.

The flood stage here is 50 feet, but officials are confident the defenses will turn back a 65 foot stage.

The great flood wall last year kept out a stage of 64.09 feet.

U. S. route 52 to the west and Ohio route 73 to the northwest were closed to traffic when water submerged the "Y" road across the Scioto river bottom at the outskirts of the city.

Hundreds of residents of west Portsmouth, who work in Portsmouth, were cut off from their jobs by the high water. Backwater flooded hundreds of acres of Scioto valley farmland, but farmers said most of their corn crop had been husked.

Threat of a serious flood situation here is lessened by the fact that the Scioto is not contributing its usual avalanche of water. Other tributaries were also reported falling, including the Muskingum.

at once. He said that shipping no longer was a demobilization bottleneck.

In addition, the war department said it was reviewing "the entire demobilization situation," and that its future program "will be forthcoming shortly."

Eisenhower ordered all theater commanders to cut their manpower requirements to a minimum. He was emphatic, however, that the strength must not be cut below minimum needs.

His orders were issued in the face of a wave of criticism of Army discharge policy by congressmen, parents and angrily demonstrating GI's.

Wilson, a member of the senate military affairs committee, said he was introducing his bill to "clarify the confusion" over demobilization. He said it had become necessary to "save the Army from itself."

Last fall, he pointed out, former chief of staff George C. Marshall promised that all men with two years' service would be out of the Army by March.

"Now," he said, "the press carries a story from Gen. McNarney (U. S. commander in Germany) in which he states that the point system will no longer be used but everything will be placed on the basis of whether a person is indispensable or not. . . ."

The men in the armed forces, Wilson added, "are asking and are entitled to know what the rules realy are."

Meanwhile, the house military affairs committee expected to complete an inquiry today into demobilization demonstrations at Andrews field just outside Washington. Chief Investigator H. Ralph Burton said a report would be submitted to the committee when congress returns from its holiday recess next week.

Burton said no other demobilization demonstrations had been investigated. Several congressmen continued to press their demands for a full-dress investigation, however.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O., said Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson had revealed that he "had little or no knowledge" of the situation.

"I believe a thorough congressional investigation of the whole matter is not only indicated but is imperative," he said.

Brown said there now are 4,300,000 men in the armed forces, including 3,500,000 who were in service on V-E day and 800,000 new selectees and volunteers.

On the other hand, he said, field commanders have said that only between 500,000 and 600,000 men are needed to police Germany and Japan while an equal number are necessary for supply and other purposes.

Sen. Warren R. Austin, R., Vt., warned against a too speedy demobilization.

"We must not quit right in the midst of this war," he said. "We have a great responsibility and it cannot be carried out by backing down on commitments we have made for pacification of the enemies of peace."

Dishwasher Is Arrested As Suspect In Chicago Kidnap-Murder Mystery

little kidnap victim was cut to pieces by a maniacal killer who tried to rape her.

The body was found in four parts in as many cesspools. Only the arms were missing.

The key, Hanrahan said, was among 21 others in the possession of Desere Smet, 35-year-old former janitor of the building, a stone's throw from the fashionable Edgewater Beach home where Suzanne was snatched from her bed Monday.

Hanrahan said that Smet "has been cleared" by a lie detector test given last night but that he had ordered the man held pending outcome of his investigation of the key's origin and its implications in the bizarre slaying.

Smet was described by police as an intimate of Hector Verburgh, 65, present custodian of the building where the dismemberment was said to have occurred. Verburgh and Smet, chief suspects, both were undergoing further questioning.

Verburgh's wife, Mary, 64, held since the couple's arrest Tuesday night, must also be set free today under the court order. The Verburghs and Smet all have persistently denied involvement in the kidnaping.

Police said late yesterday they were hunting a third panitor, reportedly missing from a basement flat he occupies near the home of the kidnap victim, daughter of James E. Degnan, 36, Chicago OPA executive who discovered the girl missing and found a crude note demanding $20,000 ransom.

A police detail waited at the home of the third janitor, said to have been "drinking heavily."

At the same time, Hanrahan said that he concluded that the crime had been committed by two men. He said he believed that one man climbed through the first-floor window of the Degnan home, took the girl from her bed and handed her down to another.

Smet, now custodian of three buildings near the dismemberment scene, identified 20 of his 21 keys, Hanrahan said, but contended that the last key was "an old one" and that he did not know what it fitted.

The officer, however, told reporters that the key was "new." Hanrahan persisted in his interest in the key despite disclosure that all tenants of the 12-apartment building had keys to the laundry.

New significance was given the finding of a 7-foot ladder immediately after the crime was reported just outside Suzanne's bedroom window. A neighbor woman told police last night that the ladder had been stolen a month ago.

The woman said that the ladder, on which one rung had been replaced by a board, was part of a long ladder broken by roofers who had repaired her home.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Helen Degnan, mother of the slain girl, learned for the first time the gruesome details of her daughter's death. She was told as gently as possible by her parish priest, the Rev. George C. Kearney, how the child's body was dismembered.

The Chicago Tribune last night offered a $10,000 reward for information "leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Suzanne Degnan."

This increased to $21,000 the total in rewards offered for conviction of the killer. Mayor Edward J. Kelley, personally directing the investigation, previously had offered $5,000, the Herald-American $5,000 and two private citizens $500 each.

tail—a man about 20, 5 feet 10 inches tall, dark hair and eyes and needing a shave wearing a cap with a button pinned on the visor.

Under close questioning by police she confessed. She said she had been reading about the Degnan kidnaping and had taken a long walk instead of going to school yesterday. Then she got to thinking what her grandmother might do to her for playing hookey, and she invented the kidnap story.

The girl lives with her grandparents. Juvenile authorities began an investigation of her home conditions.

In Elgin, Ill., police arrested James Zenk, 17, Barrington, Ill., high school student on a charge of kidnaping nine-year-old Mary Lou Jennings as she was on her way to school. They said an examing physician reported she had been raped.

Mary Lou identified Zenk as the motorist who abducted her and her two sisters, Joy, 6, and Diana, 5. Police were notified when the sisters jumped out of the car and ran to a nearby farm home as the driver stopped to examine a flat tire.

Police said Zenk apparently became frightened and let Mary Lou out of the car at Bartlett, Ill., about five miles from her home. She made her way home three hours later. Zenk was arrested after she recalled the license number of his automobile, which belonged to his grandfather. Zenk denied he had kidnaped or raped the girl.

Official Order Ending Fight Issued By Government After Meetings

in an apparent deadlock last night and was not scheduled to meet again until late today. However, a special meeting was called today in advance of the opening of the political consultative council and the agreement was reached.

The Communists and the Kuomintang had been in conflict off and on for nearly 19 years.

In 1927 Generalissimo Chiang began a purge of Communists in the Kuomintang after moving the capital to Nanking. A few months later the Communists revolted. For a period of eight years they maintained a red army and a Soviet form of government in several north central China provinces.

In 1936 peace negotiations were opened between the Kuomintang and the Communists and only sporadic outbreaks occurred thereafter.

Hostilities flared anew after Japan's surrender when Chinese government forces began taking over territory which the Communists had taken from the Japanese.

On the eve of the armistice, military actions were reported continuing.

A central news dispatch reported Nationalists, taking over Jehol province, had occupied Yehposhow, 95 miles east of Chengteh, the capital.

Informed sources said Nationalist commander Gen. Tu Li-Ming's timetable had called for taking Chengteh by Jan. 10 before the consultative council opened. At other points his troops were reported 65 miles from the goal.

Another Central dispatch said 30,000 Communist troops had laid siege to Hwangwan in southern Honan province.

LAUSCHE TO ASK MORE FUNDS FOR STATE SCHOOLS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10—The financial plight of Ohio's six overloaded state universities will be presented to the state emergency board today by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The governor called the conference with the emergency committee after spokesmen had depicted the universities' financial problems at meetings with him last Saturday and yesterday.

The six schools said they would need an additional $1,514,214 for the rest of the year in order to pay salaries of additional instructors required to take care of the greatly expanded enrollments.

A special session of the legislature would be necessary to provide this amount, since the emergency board has only $1,154,000 on hand for all purposes for 1946.

The governor is expected to discuss a partial grant to the universities which would tide them over until Spring and still avoid an immediate special session.

"Common sense indicates that a curtailment of education to the students of Ohio, and especially to ex-service men, should not occur," the governor said, promising that the money "must and will be made available."

verishly in last-minute attempts to end a strike of nearly 8,000 Western Electric company employes and stave off a communications tieup affecting all but four of the 48 states.

The strikers, members of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, who install and maintain switchboards and other technical equipment, quit yesterday in a wage dispute.

Western Electric acknowledged that the strike was "effectively complete" in 44 states and predicted a virtual communications paralysis if picket lines were set up around exchanges in key cities of the national telephone system.

The walkout followed by 24 hours a strike of Western Union employes that crippled telegraphic communications in New York City and two adjacent New Jersey counties.

Approximately 17,000 other Western Electric employes—members of the Western Electric Employes Association—already were on strike in New York and New Jersey in a different dispute.

Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the steel fact-finding panel, announced late yesterday that the U. S. Steel Corp. and the United Steel Workers (CIO) would resume negotiations on the union's demand for a $2-a-day wage boost. The company previously had said it could not negotiate until it had been granted an increase in prices.

Edgar L. Warren, conciliation service director, disclosed in Chicago last night that he had made a price relief offer to two of the big four meat packers to assist them in settling their wage dispute with CIO and AFL unions.

The companies, meeting in a three-day mediation conference, were to submit a new wage offer in the light of the proposed price boost. Best previous offer was for a 7½ cent hourly raise, compared to the 25-cent union demand.

Representatives of the CIO electrical workers and General Electric met yesterday in fruitless negotiations over the union's $2-a-day wage demand. A strike, involving 200,000 workers, is scheduled Tuesday against GE, Westinghouse and the Electrical Appliance division of General Motors.

While production remained halted in General Motors' automotive plants, the UAW resumed contract negotiations with the Ford Motor company amid signs of a speedy settlement of the controversial wage issue.

The talks undobtedly would be influenced by a new contract between the UAW and the infant Kaiser-Frazier corps., which the union said satisfied its pay demands.

Elsewhere, Navy officials interceded with union leaders in an attempt to prevent a strike of Seattle bus drivers, and Firestone Tire and Rubber company workers in Memphis, Tenn., voted 2,792 to 113 in favor of a strike.

Despite its high top speed, the Navy said the "Phantom" has a landing speed comparable to that of conventional carrier planes.

The McDonnell corporation, which also has a plane plant at Memphis, Tenn., has produced the "Kadydid," a radio-controlled target drone and the "Gargoyle," a guided flying bomb for the Navy.

pite efforts by military and political leaders in Washington to reassure the men.

In Honolulu, the mid-Pacific edition of the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes received orders from Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, theater commander, to refrain from printing criticism of "anyone in authority."

The newspaper was told specifically not to criticize President Truman, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

More than 1,500 soldiers at Fort Shafter, in the Hawaiian Islands, demanded that the Army publish a definite schedule of demobilization and asked that occupation forces be limited to hostile territories.

The Hawaiian demonstrators adopted a resolution for relay to Eisennower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur stating, "we believe that far greater numbers of men are held overseas than are actually needed for accomplishment of duties as perscribed by the war department."

In Korea, more than 1,000 soldiers met in a theater to add their protests. Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge told them he believed the war department and congress were doing all they could to get the troops home and still fulfill worldwide occupation needs.

A detachment of paratroopers carrying rifles broke up a rush by 5,000 soldiers in Frankfurt toward Joseph T. McNarney's office last night. At least 20 soldiers were arrested when they became rowdy, although the demonstration broke up quietly when the paratroop reinforcements arrived. McNarney was not in his office at the time.

Eight thousand soldiers in Guam held a protest meeting at Harmon Field and raised funds to forward a 1,000-word cable to the American veterans committee headquarters. A signal corps sergeant told the meeting that his company had sent 10,000 demobilization protest message in two days.

The keynote of the speeches was that the Army should "announce a definite plan and stick to it."

A cable from 1,800 officers and men of the 8th fighter command stationed in the United Kingdom to the United Press asserted that indiscriminate issuance of battle credits was responsible for the demobilization confusion.

"Had battle participation credit been awarded instead of issued indiscriminately redeployment of this group would have been completed months ago," it said.

Eisenhower ordered all theater commanders to cut their manpower requirements to a minimum. He was emphatic, however, that the strength must not be cut below minimum needs.

His orders were issued in the face of a wave of criticism of Army discharge policy by congressmen, parents and angrily demonstrating GI's.

Wilson, a member of the senate military affairs committee, said he was introducing his bill to "clarify the confusion" over demobilization. He said it had become necessary to "save the Army from itself."

Last fall, he pointed out, former chief of staff George C. Marshall promised that all men with two years' service would be out of the Army by March.

"Now," he said, "the press carries a story from Gen. McNarney (U. S. commander in Germany) in which he states that the point system will no longer be used but everything will be placed on the basis of whether a person is indispensable or not. . . ."

The men in the armed forces, Wilson added, "are asking and are entitled to know what the rules realy are."

Meanwhile, the house military affairs committee expected to complete an inquiry today into demobilization demonstrations at Andrews field just outside Washington. Chief Investigator H. Ralph Burton said a report would be submitted to the committee when congress returns from its holiday recess next week.

Burton said no other demobilization demonstrations had been investigated. Several congressmen continued to press their demands for a full-dress investigation, however.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O., said Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson had revealed that he "had little or no knowledge" of the situation.

"I believe a thorough congressional investigation of the whole matter is not only indicated but is imperative," he said.

Brown said there now are 4,300,000 men in the armed forces, including 3,500,000 who were in service on V-E day and 800,000 new selectees and volunteers.

On the other hand, he said, field commanders have said that only between 500,000 and 600,000 men are needed to police Germany and Japan while an equal number are necessary for supply and other purposes.

Sen. Warren R. Austin, R., Vt., warned against a too speedy demobilization.

"We must not quit right in the midst of this war," he said. "We have a great responsibility and it cannot be carried out by backing down on commitments we have made for pacification of the enemies of peace."

Dishwasher Is Arrested As Suspect In Chicago Kidnap-Murder Mystery

little kidnap victim was cut to pieces by a maniacal killer who tried to rape her.

The body was found in four parts in as many cesspools. Only the arms were missing.

The key, Hanrahan said, was among 21 others in the possession of Desere Smet, 35-year-old former janitor of the building, a stone's throw from the fashionable Edgewater Beach home where Suzanne was snatched from her bed Monday.

Hanrahan said that Smet "has been cleared" by a lie detector test given last night but that he had ordered the man held pending outcome of his investigation of the key's origin and its implications in the bizarre slaying.

Smet was described by police as an intimate of Hector Verburgh, 65, present custodian of the building where the dismemberment was said to have occurred. Verburgh and Smet, chief suspects, both were undergoing further questioning.

Verburgh's wife, Mary, 64, held since the couple's arrest Tuesday night, must also be set free today under the court order. The Verburghs and Smet all have persistently denied involvement in the kidnaping.

Police said late yesterday they were hunting a third panitor, reportedly missing from a basement flat he occupies near the home of the kidnap victim, daughter of James E. Degnan, 36, Chicago OPA executive who discovered the girl missing and found a crude note demanding $20,000 ransom.

A police detail waited at the home of the third janitor, said to have been "drinking heavily."

At the same time, Hanrahan said that he concluded that the crime had been committed by two men. He said he believed that one man climbed through the first-floor window of the Degnan home, took the girl from her bed and handed her down to another.

Smet, now custodian of three buildings near the dismemberment scene, identified 20 of his 21 keys, Hanrahan said, but contended that the last key was "an old one" and that he did not know what it fitted.

The officer, however, told reporters that the key was "new." Hanrahan persisted in his interest in the key despite disclosure that all tenants of the 12-apartment building had keys to the laundry.

New significance was given the finding of a 7-foot ladder immediately after the crime was reported just outside Suzanne's bedroom window. A neighbor woman told police last night that the ladder had been stolen a month ago.

The woman said that the ladder, on which one rung had been replaced by a board, was part of a long ladder broken by roofers who had repaired her home.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Helen Degnan, mother of the slain girl, learned for the first time the gruesome details of her daughter's death. She was told as gently as possible by her parish priest, the Rev. George C. Kearney, how the child's body was dismembered.

The Chicago Tribune last night offered a $10,000 reward for information "leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Suzanne Degnan."

This increased to $21,000 the total in rewards offered for conviction of the killer. Mayor Edward J. Kelley, personally directing the investigation, previously had offered $5,000, the Herald-American $5,000 and two private citizens $500 each.

CHILDREN HELD FOR ATTACKS

tail—a man about 20, 5 feet 10 inches tall, dark hair and eyes and needing a shave wearing a cap with a button pinned on the visor.

Under close questioning by police she confessed. She said she had been reading about the Degnan kidnaping and had taken a long walk instead of going to school yesterday. Then she got to thinking what her grandmother might do to her for playing hookey, and she invented the kidnap story.

The girl lives with her grandparents. Juvenile authorities began an investigation of her home conditions.

In Elgin, Ill., police arrested James Zenk, 17, Barrington, Ill., high school student on a charge of kidnaping nine-year-old Mary Lou Jennings as she was on her way to school. They said an examing physician reported she had been raped.

Mary Lou identified Zenk as the motorist who abducted her and her two sisters, Joy, 6, and Diana, 5. Police were notified when the sisters jumped out of the car and ran to a nearby farm home as the driver stopped to examine a flat tire.

Police said Zenk apparently became frightened and let Mary Lou out of the car at Bartlett, Ill., about five miles from her home. She made her way home three hours later. Zenk was arrested after she recalled the license number of his automobile, which belonged to his grandfather. Zenk denied he had kidnaped or raped the girl.

PARTIES AGREE ON PEACE, PLAN FOR THE FUTURE

in an apparent deadlock last night and was not scheduled to meet again until late today. However, a special meeting was called today in advance of the opening of the political consultative council and the agreement was reached.

The Communists and the Kuomintang had been in conflict off and on for nearly 19 years.

In 1927 Generalissimo Chiang began a purge of Communists in the Kuomintang after moving the capital to Nanking. A few months later the Communists revolted. For a period of eight years they maintained a red army and a Soviet form of government in several north central China provinces.

In 1936 peace negotiations were opened between the Kuomintang and the Communists and only sporadic outbreaks occurred thereafter.

Hostilities flared anew after Japan's surrender when Chinese government forces began taking over territory which the Communists had taken from the Japanese.

On the eve of the armistice, military actions were reported continuing.

A central news dispatch reported Nationalists, taking over Jehol province, had occupied Yehposhow, 95 miles east of Chengteh, the capital.

Informed sources said Nationalist commander Gen. Tu Li-Ming's timetable had called for taking Chengteh by Jan. 10 before the consultative council opened. At other points his troops were reported 65 miles from the goal.

Another Central dispatch said 30,000 Communist troops had laid siege to Hwangwan in southern Honan province.

LAUSCHE TO ASK MORE FUNDS FOR STATE SCHOOLS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10—The financial plight of Ohio's six overloaded state universities will be presented to the state emergency board today by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The governor called the conference with the emergency committee after spokesmen had depicted the universities' financial problems at meetings with him last Saturday and yesterday.

The six schools said they would need an additional $1,514,214 for the rest of the year in order to pay salaries of additional instructors required to take care of the greatly expanded enrollments.

A special session of the legislature would be necessary to provide this amount, since the emergency board has only $1,154,000 on hand for all purposes for 1946.

The governor is expected to discuss a partial grant to the universities which would tide them over until Spring and still avoid an immediate special session.

"Common sense indicates that a curtailment of education to the students of Ohio, and especially to ex-service men, should not occur," the governor said, promising that the money "must and will be made available."

Steel and Meat Labor Picture Brighter But Phone Tieup Due Friday

verishly in last-minute attempts to end a strike of nearly 8,000 Western Electric company employes and stave off a communications tieup affecting all but four of the 48 states.

The strikers, members of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, who install and maintain switchboards and other technical equipment, quit yesterday in a wage dispute.

Western Electric acknowledged that the strike was "effectively complete" in 44 states and predicted a virtual communications paralysis if picket lines were set up around exchanges in key cities of the national telephone system.

The walkout followed by 24 hours a strike of Western Union employes that crippled telegraphic communications in New York City and two adjacent New Jersey counties.

Approximately 17,000 other Western Electric employes—members of the Western Electric Employes Association—already were on strike in New York and New Jersey in a different dispute.

Nathan P Feinsinger, chairman of the steel fact-finding panel, announced late yesterday that the U. S. Steel Corp. and the United Steel Workers (CIO) would resume negotiations on the union's demand for a $2-a-day wage boost. The company previously had said it could not negotiate until it had been granted an increase in prices.

Edgar L. Warren, conciliation service director, disclosed in Chicago last night that he had made a price relief offer to two of the big four meat packers to assist them in settling their wage dispute with CIO and AFL unions.

The companies, meeting in a three-day mediation conference, were to submit a new wage offer in the light of the proposed price boost. Best previous offer was for a 7½ cent hourly raise, compared to the 25-cent union demand.

Representatives of the CIO electrical workers and General Electric met yesterday in fruitless negotiations over the union's $2-a-day wage demand. A strike, involving 200,000 workers, is scheduled Tuesday against GE, Westinghouse and the Electrical Appliance division of General Motors.

While production remained halted in General Motors' automotive plants, the UAW resumed contract negotiations with the Ford Motor company amid signs of a speedy settlement of the controversial wage issue.

The talks undobtedly would be influenced by a new contract between the UAW and the infant Kaiser-Frazier corps., which the union said satisfied its pay demands.

Elsewhere, Navy officials interceded with union leaders in an attempt to prevent a strike of Seattle bus drivers, and Firestone Tire and Rubber company workers in Memphis, Tenn., voted 2,792 to 113 in favor of a strike.

canopy is set well ahead of the wing. All rivets used in construction are set flush with the flying surfaces and the tricycle gear is completely enclosed when the wheels are retracted.

The "Phantom" is only 16 feet wide when its 40-foot wings are folded for stowage. The plane's guns are located in its nose. Rocket devices and auxiliary fuel tanks may be dropped by the pilot when the plane is in flight.

Despite its high top speed, the Navy said the "Phantom" has a landing speed comparable to that of conventional carrier planes.

The McDonnell corporation, which also has a plane plant at Memphis, Tenn., has produced the "Kadydid," a radio-controlled target drone and the "Gargoyle," a guided flying bomb for the Navy.

Army Newspaper Ordered Not To Criticize Anyone In Authority

pite efforts by military and political leaders in Washington to reassure the men.

In Honolulu, the mid-Pacific edition of the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes received orders from Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, theater commander, to refrain from printing criticism of "anyone in authority."

The newspaper was told specifically not to criticize President Truman, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

More than 1,500 soldiers at Fort Shafter, in the Hawaiian Islands, demanded that the Army publish a definite schedule of demobilization and asked that occupation forces be limited to hostile territories.

The Hawaiian demonstrators adopted a resolution for relay to Eisennower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur stating, "we believe that far greater numbers of men are held overseas than are actually needed for accomplishment of duties as perscribed by the war department."

In Korea, more than 1,000 soldiers met in a theater to add their protests. Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge told them he believed the war department and congress were doing all they could to get the troops home and still fulfill worldwide occupation needs.

A detachment of paratroopers carrying rifles broke up a rush by 5,000 soldiers in Frankfurt toward Joseph T. McNarney's office last night. At least 20 soldiers were arrested when they became rowdy, although the demonstration broke up quietly when the paratroop reinforcements arrived. McNarney was not in his office at the time.

Eight thousand soldiers in Guam held a protest meeting at Harmon Field and raised funds to forward a 1,000-word cable to the American veterans committee headquarters. A signal corps sergeant told the meeting that his company had sent 10,000 demobilization protest message in two days.

The keynote of the speeches was that the Army should "announce a definite plan and stick to it."

A cable from 1,800 officers and men of the 8th fighter command stationed in the United Kingdom to the United Press asserted that indiscriminate issuance of battle credits was responsible for the demobilization confusion.

"Had battle participation credit been awarded instead of issued indiscriminately redeployment of this group would have been completed months ago," it said.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. CATTLE ARE NOW ALMOST FREE OF T. B.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Special: American cattle are now almost completely free of tuberculosis, according to a report issued here today by veterinary authorities.

"Twenty-five years ago, bovine tuberculosis caused tremendous financial losses to our farmers, and caused the spread of bone forms of tuberculosis to tens of thousands of children," today's report by the American Foundation for Animal Health declares.

"In contrast with this, a recent check at three important cattle markets showed that only one animal in 7,300 was condemned by veterinary inspectors because of this disease. In these same three markets twenty-five years ago condemnations for tuberculosis averaged one animal in every 80.

"The 25-year fight against this disease, led by veterinarians, government authorities, and farm groups, has paid tremendous dividends, both financially and in saving the lives of countless children who might have otherwise died of the disease."

DEPUTIES THROW BIG SCARE BUT DO GOOD DEED

Deputies Vern L. Pontious and Lester E. Wolford threw a real scare into the heart of a young truck driver on route 22 west of Williamsport at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

The deputies had been investigating a case at New Holland and were on their way back when they saw two large white bundles fall on the highway. The bundles were picked up and the deputies' turned their car around and speedily raced after the truck, forcing the driver to stop.

The young driver, a very frightened young man, by that time, heaved a sigh of relief when the bundles, which had fallen off his truck were returned to him and he found that he was not going to be arrested for anything. The sheriff's department had completed its good deed for the day and headed back to the county seat.

NEW GADGETS ARE DISPLAYED

Postwar Kitchen Will Be Equipped With Many Unusual Items

CHICAGO—That postwar kitchen was worth waiting for.

Kitchen gadgets on display at the mid-Winter home furnishings show at the merchandise and furniture marts include:

1. A sink that chews up chicken bones, olive pits and eggshells and swishes them down the drain. Its manufacturers claim the sink will dispose of all garbage except bottles and tin cans.

2. An electric dishwasher that whisks the china, glass, silverware and pans clean with a flick of the wrist. The housewife simply stacks the dishes, pushes a button and settles down with a good book.

3. An oven that turns itself on, cooks the roast to a juicy brown and turns itself off.

Postwar homes will have carpets of cork, drapes of glass fabric and furniture upholstered in the new plastic, keoroseal.

An electronic blanket will adjust itself to the temperature of the bedroom and keep the sleeper warm all Winter.

Prewar favorites — Aluminum pots and pans, heat-resistant glass baking dishes, stainless steel cutlery—are back in the show this year.

Manufacturers said some of the items are on dealers' shelves now. Others are available only in small quantities and many still are in the sample stage.

Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the national retail furniture association, said shipments of furniture, appliances, bedding and floor coverings should step up rapidly next Spring.

The show, which already had set a new attendance record of nearly 20,000, was scheduled to continue through January 19.

ANDERSON FOR FARM COOPS IN NCFC ADDRESS

Big Corporations Might Have Taken Over Agriculture Secretary States

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said Wednesday that big corporations probably would have taken over "as much of agriculture as they have of other parts of our economy," if it had not been for the growth of cooperatives and government encouragement of family type farms.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Anderson said cooperatives have served as the individual farmer's strongest weapon against big business in agriculture.

He said farmers and other small businessmen could compete against the "economic giants" only by becoming just as efficient as the large operators and that farmer cooperatives were the growers' best answer to big business.

They are, he added, "the very essence of free enterprises more efficiently for individual profit.

"The farmer and the other small businessmen of today must operate in a world of economic giants, yet they must retain their identity and their flexibilty as individual enterprisers.

"They can do that only by becoming just as efficient as the large operators."

He estimated that approximately half the farmers in the United States are members of cooperatives, which he said "have been pacesetters in improving the quality of farm products supplied the public."

One of the biggest jobs ahead for farm cooperatives is that of gaining greater public understanding of what they are and how they serve the nation's welfare, Anderson added.

"We have been talking to ourselves too much, and to the public, too little," he said. "I think the public is somewhat confused about cooperatives."

U. S. CATTLE ARE NOW ALMOST FREE OF T. B.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Special: American cattle are now almost completely free of tuberculosis, according to a report issued here today by veterinary authorities.

"Twenty-five years ago, bovine tuberculosis caused tremendous financial losses to our farmers, and caused the spread of bone forms of tuberculosis to tens of thousands of children," today's report by the American Foundation for Animal Health declares.

"In contrast with this, a recent check at three important cattle markets showed that only one animal in 7,300 was condemned by veterinary inspectors because of this disease. In these same three markets twenty-five years ago condemnations for tuberculosis averaged one animal in every 80.

"The 25-year fight against this disease, led by veterinarians, government authorities, and farm groups, has paid tremendous dividends, both financially and in saving the lives of countless children who might have otherwise died of the disease."

DEPUTIES THROW BIG SCARE BUT DO GOOD DEED

Deputies Vern L. Pontious and Lester E. Wolford threw a real scare into the heart of a young truck driver on route 22 west of Williamsport at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

The deputies had been investigating a case at New Holland and were on their way back when they saw two large white bundles fall on the highway. The bundles were picked up and the deputies' turned their car around and speedily raced after the truck, forcing the driver to stop.

The young driver, a very frightened young man, by that time, heaved a sigh of relief when the bundles, which had fallen off his truck were returned to him and he found that he was not going to be arrested for anything. The sheriff's department had completed its good deed for the day and headed back to the county seat.

NEW GADGETS ARE DISPLAYED

Postwar Kitchen Will Be Equipped With Many Unusual Items

CHICAGO—That postwar kitchen was worth waiting for.

Kitchen gadgets on display at the mid-Winter home furnishings show at the merchandise and furniture marts include:

1. A sink that chews up chicken bones, olive pits and eggshells and swishes them down the drain. Its manufacturers claim the sink will dispose of all garbage except bottles and tin cans.

2. An electric dishwasher that whisks the china, glass, silverware and pans clean with a flick of the wrist. The housewife simply stacks the dishes, pushes a button and settles down with a good book.

3. An oven that turns itself on, cooks the roast to a juicy brown and turns itself off.

Postwar homes will have carpets of cork, drapes of glass fabric and furniture upholstered in the new plastic, keoroseal.

An electronic blanket will adjust itself to the temperature of the bedroom and keep the sleeper warm all Winter.

Prewar favorites — Aluminum pots and pans, heat-resistant glass baking dishes, stainless steel cutlery—are back in the show this year.

Manufacturers said some of the items are on dealers' shelves now. Others are available only in small quantities and many still are in the sample stage.

Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the national retail furniture association, said shipments of furniture, appliances, bedding and floor coverings should step up rapidly next Spring.

The show, which already had set a new attendance record of nearly 20,000, was scheduled to continue through January 19.

ENROLLMENT UP 33 P.C.

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—An increase in daytime enrollment of 33 per cent over last year has been announced by Chancellor Arthur H. Compton of Washington University.

The 3,741 students represent all 48 states, with 34 students registered from 13 foreign countries.

ANDERSON FOR FARM COOPS IN NCFC ADDRESS

Big Corporations Might Have Taken Over Agriculture Secretary States

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said Wednesday that big corporations probably would have taken over "as much of agriculture as they have of other parts of our economy," if it had not been for the growth of cooperatives and government encouragement of family type farms.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Anderson said cooperatives have served as the individual farmer's strongest weapon against big business in agriculture.

He said farmers and other small businessmen could compete against the "economic giants" only by becoming just as efficient as the large operators and that farmer cooperatives were the growers' best answer to big business.

They are, he added, "the very essence of free enterprises more efficiently for individual profit.

"The farmer and the other small businessmen of today must operate in a world of economic giants, yet they must retain their identity and their flexibilty as individual enterprisers.

"They can do that only by becoming just as efficient as the large operators."

He estimated that approximately half the farmers in the United States are members of cooperatives, which he said "have been pacesetters in improving the quality of farm products supplied the public."

One of the biggest jobs ahead for farm cooperatives is that of gaining greater public understanding of what they are and how they serve the nation's welfare, Anderson added.

"We have been talking to ourselves too much, and to the public, too little," he said. "I think the public is somewhat confused about cooperatives."

WACS ON DUTY AT LOCKBOURNE LEAVING BASE

16 Remaining Enlisted Women Transferred To Other Army Installations

All WACS were scheduled to have been transferred away from Lockbourne Army Air Base by Thursday, according to an announcement by the LAAB public relations office.

The sixteen remaining enlisted women stationed at the base will have been transferred to various other installation including Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, Newark Army Air Base, Newark, New Jersey and Oakland Army Air Base, Oakland. California, it was announced.

A MESSAGE TO YOU—

FROM "HARVEST OF STARS" RADIO PROGRAM
SUNDAY, JANUARY 13, 1946, NBC STATION
2 p. m. Eastern Time

Winter in America affords a period of relaxation, jollity, and a renewal of friendships everywhere. Throughout the nation—on the farms—in the city—folks take time out for fun and neighborliness. But—there is work to be done as well, planning for the future, making ready for next season, putting farm equipment in shape for the rush of Spring work. This, perhaps, is the farmer's most useful Winter occupation. Time was when machinery stood in the barnyard or in the fields to gather rust between seasons. But today's good farmer appreciates good machinery . . . gives it good care. That's why he takes time, this season of the year, to have his equipment checked and put in shape.

This is the time when he works out a schedule for servicing with his local Harvester dealer . . . for behind every piece of International Harvester equipment is a nation-wide dealer organization. Your McCormick-Deering dealer carries a complete line of service parts and has the skilled men and equipment needed to keep modern machines in profitable operation. To him goes much of the credit for keeping farm machinery running during the war when new equipment was not available. International Harvester is proud of its dealers . . . proud of the way they work to make the American farmer the best equipped, the most efficient and productive farmer in all the world.

A MESSAGE TO YOU—

FROM "HARVEST OF STARS" RADIO PROGRAM
SUNDAY, JANUARY 13, 1946, NBC STATION
2 p. m. Eastern Time

Winter in America affords a period of relaxation, jollity, and a renewal of friendships everywhere. Throughout the nation—on the farms—in the city—folks take time out for fun and neighborliness. But—there is work to be done as well, planning for the future, making ready for next season, putting farm equipment in shape for the rush of Spring work. This, perhaps, is the farmer's most useful Winter occupation. Time was when machinery stood in the barnyard or in the fields to gather rust between seasons. But today's good farmer appreciates good machinery . . . gives it good care. That's why he takes time, this season of the year, to have his equipment checked and put in shape.

This is the time when he works out a schedule for servicing with his local Harvester dealer . . . for behind every piece of International Harvester equipment is a nation-wide dealer organization. Your McCormick-Deering dealer carries a complete line of service parts and has the skilled men and equipment needed to keep modern machines in profitable operation. To him goes much of the credit for keeping farm machinery running during the war when new equipment was not available. International Harvester is proud of its dealers . . . proud of the way they work to make the American farmer the best equipped, the most efficient and productive farmer in all the world.

AMERICA AND ENGLAND

THE expert forecasts indicate higher wages for this year and next year, in the major industries and those connected with them. And higher wages tend to stimulate prices. It is not so beneficial to ordinary citizens who have to put up the money to build new homes or improve their old ones. And it is naturally not so good for middle-aged or elderly citizens living on their incomes and watching prices rise. There are millions of them.

Many of those millions—far too many for the comfort of average Americans—are probably looking a little more closely at England and inquiring into the "socialist" government now established there. It is really a rather mild form of socialism, frightening our people more by its frank terminology than by its method of operation, but the trend is important and worth watching.

As the picture looks at present, it seems as if our high wages in America, and our more comfortable life in general, is and will for some time continue to be the strongest American bulwark against socialism.

TOO MANY EGGS

EVEN the housewife will get a divident or about 50 more than last year according to the department of Agriculture, or the country is going to be swamped with hen fruit. It all comes from efficiency methods applied to the laying process. The hens have done too good a job and they are going to pay for this. For as many as 70,000,000 of them are to be slaughtered in the coming year to control the egg market and keep the American public from a too eggy diet.

Well, fried chicken and angel food cake, pretty rare during war time, are good eating. And here's a chance to let the family gorge on them once more.

DISHWASHING, NEW WAY

EVE.. the housewife will get a divident out of the splitting of the atom. Her time-honored enemies, dirty dishes, will have their terrors abolished by the new electronic device reported by Howard W. Blakeslee in "Steelways", a publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute. This device will blow off the accumulated debris and grease from the cups and plates. Then a puff of air will blow off the dust that the process leaves, and the dishes are ready for the shelves.

The catch, and most things have one, is that the power required will be expensive. Still, if power becomes as cheap as the atomic experimenters hope, every house can afford the new device. This would mean the last of the old war cry of the emancipated woman, "Death before dishwater!"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—President Truman is losing popularity with the hundreds of people with whom I talked during a ten-day trip through the north central states—but not for the reasons hotly discussed in Washington, not upon the issues of his battle with congress.

The average man and woman are not concerned much today with the discussions of the high pressure groups. No one I saw mentioned the full employment spending proposal, boosting employment compensation, fair employment practises or the other bills before congress.

Indeed, few brought up the subject of strikes which are all over the front pages. If you mention the walkouts first, you will find most people bitter and wanting to go much further than Mr. Truman to curb them.

But the portion of the public I was able to consult has an interesting and new attitude about the union campaign. You might call it a seething but suppressed resentment, based on a factor the union strategists apparently have not considered, namely that the average man and woman sees no hope of a 30 percent wage increase or greater post-war considerations for their wants, but sees only news of union demands beyond their own hopes and strikes which inconvenience them and ignore their interests (strikes against their getting autos, refrigerators, radios; strikes in public service monopolies such as telephones and telegraph.)

But as I say, this feeling is latent and covered by the conditions of war in which the public got accustomed to being kicked around and also by a hangover desire from the war to be cheerful in the face of all inconvenience, without any real knowledge of the justice or injustice of union claims. This is definitely hurting the cause of strikers.

But it is only a secondary phase in basic cause of public dissatisfaction, which is founded upon visible evidence all too intimate to every citizen, yet not to the president, his high officials or those who may ride in special planes and live their lives exclusive of normal conditions of living which beset the average citizens.

Observable facts are simply these:

This country has not recovered from the war-time demoralization of goods and services. The public is being pushed around now more than during the war. Complications and difficulties of living have greatly worsened in the last eight months since the end in Europe. People cannot get any of the things they want—whether butter, Christmas presents, clothes, cleaning, proper service in any line, including transportation.

You can understand the general condition in the experience one business man related concerning his business travels. He bought a drawing room from Washington to Chicago, but before he picked it up, it was sold by a ticket clerk who told him the room was for wounded soldiers, and he would have to take lowers.

On the train there was not only no wounded soldiers in his drawing room, but none on the entire train. His associates reminded him the bootlegging of train reservations makes drawing rooms worth $25 bribes.

But leaving Washington, he found not even his lower available. He had to ride

Streptomycin—A T. B. Weapon

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FOR years, scientists have been searching for a substance with which to successfully attack the disease of tuberculosis. When the sulfonamide drugs were discovered, it was hoped that one of these preparations might be effective against tuberculosis germs. Then, when penicillin first made its appearance, it was hoped that it might be the answer.

The most recent substance tried is known as streptomycin. This substance was first described in 1944. Tests were carried out with it to see if it would kill the tuberculosis germ, and it was found that it would do so. Then tests were made in guinea pigs affected with tuberculosis, and streptomycin was found valuable in arresting the progress of the disease in these animals.

Treating Tuberculosis

Since 1944, Doctors Horton C. Hinshaw and W. H. Feldman of the Mayo Clinic have used streptomycin in treating 34 patients who had tuberculosis. At first only small doses of the preparation were employed because not much was known about it.

Later, after its properties were more accurately determined, larger doses were administered and more encouraging results obtained.

Streptomycin rarely causes any serious reaction even when given in large doses, and continuously administered for several weeks. There is usually some pain at the point where it is injected repeatedly, but the pain is no more severe than that produced by penicillin.

Temperature Rise

Often, there is a moderate rise in the patient's temperature, but this is not regarded as being of serious importance. Now that more purified preparations are available these reactions are less severe than in the past, and so it is thought that perhaps the reactions were due to impurities in the earlier products employed.

From the 34 patients studied by Doctors Hinshaw and Feldman, the conclusion was made that it appears probable that streptomycin does have a limited effect in suppressing the progress of tuberculosis. However, it doesn't seem that the drug is rapidly effective.

At present, the usual measures employed for the treatment of tuberculosis of the lung should not be given up in favor of treatment with streptomycin but the two, of course, may be used together when the preparation is more readily available. The good results obtained in certain types of tuberculosis would seem to indicate that streptomycin does have some value, and that much further study should be carried out.

A SWIFT move toward grasping a favorable prospect of keen and clever possibilities, which might advance the progressive and lucrative condition of matters that have been lagging or steeped in definite dangers, through mistake, wrong judgment or false moves.

It will take unusual cleverness, keen insight, as well as alert intelligence to meet and vanquish sinister currents. Rash or impetuous action would precipitate loss. Shun all excesses, extravagance and aggression in all contacts.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of moving into a flourishing and rising current of advancement, profit and personal gratification if they will use exceptional intelligence, keep insight into complicated situations, with swft and decisive moves to take advantage of splendid new openings and opportunities.

But wild strokes, impetuous or reckless conduct, with extravagant, indulgent and tumultuous course of action would precipitate loss of assets, prestige and possessions, both in home and business. A calm, conservative and studied course might avert severe reversals or disagreeable backfire, even physical dangers or accidents.

A child born on this day might be shrewd, unusually brilliant and versatile but may be disposed to self undoing by its rash, tumultuous, extravagant and excessive impulses.

THE BIRTHDAY MURDER

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

THE DOG Haggis was a small, energetic Sealyham, whose earnest brown eyes peered up through a fringe of grayish white hair, whose entire hindquarters collaborated whenever she wagged her tail, which was often, and who labored forever against a rapacious hunger. Victoria was aware of a certain similarity between herself and her little dog. "We're just a couple of elderly girls," she sometimes said to Haggis.

The veterinary telephoned shortly after Tuck left on Saturday afternoon. Haggis had quite recovered from her operation and might be called for whenever convenient. This lifted Victoria from the fog of puzzlement which had descended on her when she learned of the absence of any poison in the kitchen canister. She realized that the unnatural silence of her house was due largely to the absence of the bustling Haggis, and she knew that the return of the dog would do a great deal toward raising her spirits.

Driving back from the vet's, with Haggis' cold moist nose against her bare ankle, Victoria's spirits rose. She turned into her street from Sunset with the baseless feeling that somehow everything was going to be all right. Haggis burst from the car as soon as she opened the door, espied the neighbor's sultry gray Persian cat picking her lofty way through the ivy that covered the deep front yard under the trees, and with a spine-chilling series of barks sped after her. The cat picked up remarkable speed without loss of dignity, and jumped lightly into the lower branches of a tree, which left Haggis circling its base, frantic with frustration.

Smiling, Victoria entered her house. Hazel was bustling about the sunny kitchen. But the smile left Victoria's face when Hazel said: "Bernice called, dear. She wanted me to remind you that you had better make arrangements about Mr. Hime's funeral."

So Victoria went to the phone and called the undertaker whose establishment stood in simple stucco grandeur at the foot of her street.

"I think, Mrs. Hime," said the man's soft voice, "that you will have to come down and select the casket."

"Oh, you can do that all right, I'm sure," said Victoria. "Just something simple and expensive with silver handles."

"We do not usually do it that way, Mrs. Hime. We have a very large selection of caskets, and it has been found to be better for the deceased's kin to make the selection."

So Victoria reluctantly prepared to leave the house on a most unwelcome errand. Just before she left, Hazel asked if she might have the rest of the afternoon off, as it was the only time she had been able to get an appointment to have her hair waved, and Victoria acceded to the request. "I'll be back in time to serve your dinner at six," she promised.

When Victoria returned home and let herself in with her key, she went into her bedroom and put on one of her two black dresses. In the den she stopped and looked down at the yellow page still spilling from the roller of her typewriter. She wondered if she would ever finish that page, if the pressure of the strangely unreal reality of the last two days would ever ebb and allow her to step into her private world again.

She went to Albert's room and selected his best dark suit, the one he used for small dinners, and laid it across the bed. She would take it later to the mortician's. She wondered what she would do with the rest of his clothes, and decided to send them to Russian War Relief. She telephoned, and they said they would send up a truck on Monday. She forced herself to go through all the pockets. She found the stubs of two theater tickets for a show they had seen a month before; two partly consumed chocolate bars, half a package of cigarets, a fountain pen. On the laped of one suit was a dark red smudge of lipstick.

Dolefully she went out of Albert's room and closed the door tightly after her. She called for Haggis, but Haggis was not within earshot. She looked out the front door and saw that the gray Persian was gone from its perch on the branch of the tree; Haggis was probably still on her track. She left the front door open so Haggis could get in.

Hazel called at five-thirty and said she had been delayed. Victoria told her there was no hurry, that she wasn't very hungry. Then she decided that Haggis might be, and opened a can of dog food. She put some in Haggis' blue bowl, which Hazel had thoughtfully left clean and shining just inside the service door of the kitchen. "O. K., Haggis!" Victoria shouted. "Food now!"

But the call which usually brought Haggis bouncing excitedly into the kitchen had no such result. Victoria decided that Haggis was after the cat again, and went to the front door and called from there. No Haggis. She went part way down the steps leading to the graveled driveway and called again. Then she saw the gray Persian cat stretched in luxurious content atop the whitewashed wall that separated the long driveway from the old orchard which flanked the house on the south. She was licking one limp paw idly. Victoria knew that this was a piece of trespassing Haggis never permitted, and turned back to the house with worry at her heels. Could Haggis' short absence have made her lose her old familiarity with the house and its environs? Could she have wandered far afield and got lost?

Ten minutes later she found Haggis. She found her on the small walled balcony, lying half under the long sunchair. Her eyes were closed and her little belly was rising and falling with her quick breathing. When Victoria stooped down beside her, Haggis opened brown eyes to look once at Victoria, and then closed them again. She touched the dog's nose with one forefinger. Dry and hot. Its usual shiny blackness was gone; it looked dusty and unwholesome.

She gave the dog's shaggy head a quick soft pat and stood up. With strides amazingly long for so small a woman, Victoria launched herself toward the telephone. She looked up the number of the veterinary, dialed it swiftly, and to the man's voice which answered she said, "You just operated on my dog. You send someone up here fast. She's very sick. You've botched something badly."

"Oh, I hardly think that's likely. We . . ."

"I don't give a hang what you hardly think! This dog is dying, and I am holding you entirely responsible!"

"Who is this talking?" asked the man in subdued tones.

She told him, and gave him the address.

"We're really closed for the day," said the man, "but I'll come up myself. Keep perfectly calm, Mrs. Hime. It is probably just some minor post-operative reaction which . . ."

"Don't talk like an idiot! I've seen the dog. There's something terribly wrong with her! You get here fast!"

With an inarticulate sound, the man broke the connection.

When the doorbell rang 20 minutes later, Victoria was squatting once more beside Haggis, softly stroking the panting, shaggy hide, whose rise and fall seemed now even more rapid, more indicative of the death spreading through the little animal's helpless body.

The veterinary had not stopped to change the high-necked and impressive white coat which all the attendants wore on duty. An anxious crease was between his brows, and he was carrying a small black bag not unlike a doctor's. "Where's the dog?" he asked tersely. She led him to the balcony. He squatted down beside Haggis, his big clean hands going swiftly over the dog's body with professional gentleness. Under the pressure of his fingers the dog gave a sudden choked cough, ducking her head as a human being does. The big hand went almost tenderly up to Haggis' throat and pressed. Haggis gave another cough, and a thin watery substance spurted from her mouth, falling with a wet flat sound onto the flagstones.

The veterinary looked up over his white-clad shoulder at Victoria. His face was no longer anxious, but set and remote. "This dog has been poisoned," he said.

Knowing North as an occasional bidder of short club suits, East opened the 4 of the suit, and the 7 forced the 10. South counted up a flock of chances to get the two tricks needed in addition to the seven in sight, the three in clubs, two in diamonds and two in hearts. He found how to try every chance.

Beginning with hearts, he had two chances to get both extra tricks there. First he took the finesse, which failed, and West returned his club 2 to the A. Next he played the heart A and K, hoping for an even division, which failed, so he led a fourth heart to set up one trick he required.

This time West returned the diamond 2, and the play of the J made the third try for a break. But East covered and the A won. Next the heart 7 was scored. Now came a successful effort which partly built a trick, the finesse of the spade 9 against the 10, which managed to force the A. East led the diamond 6 to the 10 and K. The club K was scored, seeking a division. North also hoped West would discard a diamond and keep two spades. But he did not. When the spade 3 was led then to the Q and K, West was able to lead the diamond 8 to the 9 for the setting trick.

Count the tries North made—five of them—the heart finesse, heart break, diamond finesse, club division and effort for a spade trick. His conscience was surely clear, though he was set.

AMERICA AND ENGLAND

THE expert forecasts indicate higher wages for this year and next year, in the major industries and those connected with them. And higher wages tend to stimulate prices. It is not so beneficial to ordinary citizens who have to put up the money to build new homes or improve their old ones. And it is naturally not so good for middle-aged or elderly citizens living on their incomes and watching prices rise. There are millions of them.

Many of those millions—far too many for the comfort of average Americans—are probably looking a little more closely at England and inquiring into the "socialist" government now established there. It is really a rather mild form of socialism, frightening our people more by its frank terminology than by its method of operation, but the trend is important and worth watching.

As the picture looks at present, it seems as if our high wages in America, and our more comfortable life in general, is and will for some time continue to be the strongest American bulwark against socialism.

TOO MANY EGGS

EVEN the housewife will get a divident or about 50 more than last year according to the department of Agriculture, or the country is going to be swamped with hen fruit. It all comes from efficiency methods applied to the laying process. The hens have done too good a job and they are going to pay for this. For as many as 70,000,000 of them are to be slaughtered in the coming year to control the egg market and keep the American public from a too eggy diet.

Well, fried chicken and angel food cake, pretty rare during war time, are good eating. And here's a chance to let the family gorge on them once more.

DISHWASHING, NEW WAY

EVE.. the housewife will get a divident out of the splitting of the atom. Her time-honored enemies, dirty dishes, will have their terrors abolished by the new electronic device reported by Howard W. Blakeslee in "Steelways", a publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute. This device will blow off the accumulated debris and grease from the cups and plates. Then a puff of air will blow off the dust that the process leaves, and the dishes are ready for the shelves.

The catch, and most things have one, is that the power required will be expensive. Still, if power becomes as cheap as the atomic experimenters hope, every house can afford the new device. This would mean the last of the old war cry of the emancipated woman, "Death before dishwater!"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

CHICAGO, Jan. 10—President Truman is losing popularity with the hundreds of people with whom I talked during a ten-day trip through the north central states—but not for the reasons hotly discussed in Washington, not upon the issues of his battle with congress.

The average man and woman are not concerned much today with the discussions of the high pressure groups. No one I saw mentioned the full employment spending proposal, boosting employment compensation, fair employment practises or the other bills before congress.

Indeed, few brought up the subject of strikes which are all over the front pages. If you mention the walkouts first, you will find most people bitter and wanting to go much further than Mr. Truman to curb them.

But the portion of the public I was able to consult has an interesting and new attitude about the union campaign. You might call it a seething but suppressed resentment, based on a factor the union strategists apparently have not considered, namely that the average man and woman sees no hope of a 30 percent wage increase or greater post-war considerations for their wants, but sees only news of union demands beyond their own hopes and strikes which inconvenience them and ignore their interests (strikes against their getting autos, refrigerators, radios; strikes in public service monopolies such as telephones and telegraph.)

But as I say, this feeling is latent and covered by the conditions of war in which the public got accustomed to being kicked around and also by a hangover desire from the war to be cheerful in the face of all inconvenience, without any real knowledge of the justice or injustice of union claims. This is definitely hurting the cause of strikers.

But it is only a secondary phase in basic cause of public dissatisfaction, which is founded upon visible evidence all too intimate to every citizen, yet not to the president, his high officials or those who may ride in special planes and live their lives exclusive of normal conditions of living which beset the average citizens.

Observable facts are simply these:

This country has not recovered from the war-time demoralization of goods and services. The public is being pushed around now more than during the war. Complications and difficulties of living have greatly worsened in the last eight months since the end in Europe. People cannot get any of the things they want—whether butter, Christmas presents, clothes, cleaning, proper service in any line, including transportation.

You can understand the general condition in the experience one business man related concerning his business travels. He bought a drawing room from Washington to Chicago, but before he picked it up, it was sold by a ticket clerk who told him the room was for wounded soldiers, and he would have to take lowers.

On the train there was not only no wounded soldiers in his drawing room, but none on the entire train. His associates reminded him the bootlegging of train reservations makes drawing rooms worth $25 bribes.

But leaving Washington, he found not even his lower available. He had to ride

Streptomycin—A T. B. Weapon

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FOR years, scientists have been searching for a substance with which to successfully attack the disease of tuberculosis. When the sulfonamide drugs were discovered, it was hoped that one of these preparations might be effective against tuberculosis germs. Then, when penicillin first made its appearance, it was hoped that it might be the answer.

The most recent substance tried is known as streptomycin. This substance was first described in 1944. Tests were carried out with it to see if it would kill the tuberculosis germ, and it was found that it would do so. Then tests were made in guinea pigs affected with tuberculosis, and streptomycin was found valuable in arresting the progress of the disease in these animals.

Treating Tuberculosis

Since 1944, Doctors Horton C. Hinshaw and W. H. Feldman of the Mayo Clinic have used streptomycin in treating 34 patients who had tuberculosis. At first only small doses of the preparation were employed because not much was known about it.

Later, after its properties were more accurately determined, larger doses were administered and more encouraging results obtained.

Streptomycin rarely causes any serious reaction even when given in large doses, and continuously administered for several weeks. There is usually some pain at the point where it is injected repeatedly, but the pain is no more severe than that produced by penicillin.

Temperature Rise

Often, there is a moderate rise in the patient's temperature, but this is not regarded as being of serious importance. Now that more purified preparations are available these reactions are less severe than in the past, and so it is thought that perhaps the reactions were due to impurities in the earlier products employed.

From the 34 patients studied by Doctors Hinshaw and Feldman, the conclusion was made that it appears probable that streptomycin does have a limited effect in suppressing the progress of tuberculosis. However, it doesn't seem that the drug is rapidly effective.

At present, the usual measures employed for the treatment of tuberculosis of the lung should not be given up in favor of treatment with streptomycin but the two, of course, may be used together when the preparation is more readily available. The good results obtained in certain types of tuberculosis would seem to indicate that streptomycin does have some value, and that much further study should be carried out.

A SWIFT move toward grasping a favorable prospect of keen and clever possibilities, which might advance the progressive and lucrative condition of matters that have been lagging or steeped in definite dangers, through mistake, wrong judgment or false moves.

It will take unusual cleverness, keen insight, as well as alert intelligence to meet and vanquish sinister currents. Rash or impetuous action would precipitate loss. Shun all excesses, extravagance and aggression in all contacts.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of moving into a flourishing and rising current of advancement, profit and personal gratification if they will use exceptional intelligence, keep insight into complicated situations, with swft and decisive moves to take advantage of splendid new openings and opportunities.

But wild strokes, impetuous or reckless conduct, with extravagant, indulgent and tumultuous course of action would precipitate loss of assets, prestige and possessions, both in home and business. A calm, conservative and studied course might avert severe reversals or disagreeable backfire, even physical dangers or accidents.

THE BIRTHDAY MURDER

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

THE DOG Haggis was a small, energetic Sealyham, whose earnest brown eyes peered up through a fringe of grayish white hair, whose entire hindquarters collaborated whenever she wagged her tail, which was often, and who labored forever against a rapacious hunger. Victoria was aware of a certain similarity between herself and her little dog. "We're just a couple of elderly girls," she sometimes said to Haggis.

The veterinary telephoned shortly after Tuck left on Saturday afternoon. Haggis had quite recovered from her operation and might be called for whenever convenient. This lifted Victoria from the fog of puzzlement which had descended on her when she learned of the absence of any poison in the kitchen canister. She realized that the unnatural silence of her house was due largely to the absence of the bustling Haggis, and she knew that the return of the dog would do a great deal toward raising her spirits.

Driving back from the vet's, with Haggis' cold moist nose against her bare ankle, Victoria's spirits rose. She turned into her street from Sunset with the baseless feeling that somehow everything was going to be all right. Haggis burst from the car as soon as she opened the door, espied the neighbor's sultry gray Persian cat picking her lofty way through the ivy that covered the deep front yard under the trees, and with a spine-chilling series of barks sped after her. The cat picked up remarkable speed without loss of dignity, and jumped lightly into the lower branches of a tree, which left Haggis circling its base, frantic with frustration.

Smiling, Victoria entered her house. Hazel was bustling about the sunny kitchen. But the smile left Victoria's face when Hazel said: "Bernice called, dear. She wanted me to remind you that you had better make arrangements about Mr. Hime's funeral."

So Victoria went to the phone and called the undertaker whose establishment stood in simple stucco grandeur at the foot of her street.

"I think, Mrs. Hime," said the man's soft voice, "that you will have to come down and select the casket."

"Oh, you can do that all right, I'm sure," said Victoria. "Just something simple and expensive with silver handles."

"We do not usually do it that way, Mrs. Hime. We have a very large selection of caskets, and it has been found to be better for the deceased's kin to make the selection."

So Victoria reluctantly prepared to leave the house on a most unwelcome errand. Just before she left, Hazel asked if she might have the rest of the afternoon off, as it was the only time she had been able to get an appointment to have her hair waved, and Victoria acceded to the request. "I'll be back in time to serve your dinner at six," she promised.

When Victoria returned home and let herself in with her key, she went into her bedroom and put on one of her two black dresses. In the den she stopped and looked down at the yellow page still spilling from the roller of her typewriter. She wondered if she would ever finish that page, if the pressure of the strangely unreal reality of the last two days would ever ebb and allow her to step into her private world again.

She went to Albert's room and selected his best dark suit, the one he used for small dinners, and laid it across the bed. She would take it later to the mortician's. She wondered what she would do with the rest of his clothes, and decided to send them to Russian War Relief. She telephoned, and they said they would send up a truck on Monday. She forced herself to go through all the pockets. She found the stubs of two theater tickets for a show they had seen a month before; two partly consumed chocolate bars, half a package of cigarets, a fountain pen. On the laped of one suit was a dark red smudge of lipstick.

Dolefully she went out of Albert's room and closed the door tightly after her. She called for Haggis, but Haggis was not within earshot. She looked out the front door and saw that the gray Persian was gone from its perch on the branch of the tree; Haggis was probably still on her track. She left the front door open so Haggis could get in.

Hazel called at five-thirty and said she had been delayed. Victoria told her there was no hurry, that she wasn't very hungry. Then she decided that Haggis might be, and opened a can of dog food. She put some in Haggis' blue bowl, which Hazel had thoughtfully left clean and shining just inside the service door of the kitchen. "O. K., Haggis!" Victoria shouted. "Food now!"

But the call which usually brought Haggis bouncing excitedly into the kitchen had no such result. Victoria decided that Haggis was after the cat again, and went to the front door and called from there. No Haggis. She went part way down the steps leading to the graveled driveway and called again. Then she saw the gray Persian cat stretched in luxurious content atop the whitewashed wall that separated the long driveway from the old orchard which flanked the house on the south. She was licking one limp paw idly. Victoria knew that this was a piece of trespassing Haggis never permitted, and turned back to the house with worry at her heels. Could Haggis' short absence have made her lose her old familiarity with the house and its environs? Could she have wandered far afield and got lost?

Ten minutes later she found Haggis. She found her on the small walled balcony, lying half under the long sunchair. Her eyes were closed and her little belly was rising and falling with her quick breathing. When Victoria stooped down beside her, Haggis opened brown eyes to look once at Victoria, and then closed them again. She touched the dog's nose with one forefinger. Dry and hot. Its usual shiny blackness was gone; it looked dusty and unwholesome.

She gave the dog's shaggy head a quick soft pat and stood up. With strides amazingly long for so small a woman, Victoria launched herself toward the telephone. She looked up the number of the veterinary, dialed it swiftly, and to the man's voice which answered she said, "You just operated on my dog. You send someone up here fast. She's very sick. You've botched something badly."

"Oh, I hardly think that's likely. We . . ."

"I don't give a hang what you hardly think! This dog is dying, and I am holding you entirely responsible!"

"Who is this talking?" asked the man in subdued tones.

She told him, and gave him the address.

"We're really closed for the day," said the man, "but I'll come up myself. Keep perfectly calm, Mrs. Hime. It is probably just some minor post-operative reaction which . . ."

"Don't talk like an idiot! I've seen the dog. There's something terribly wrong with her! You get here fast!"

With an inarticulate sound, the man broke the connection.

When the doorbell rang 20 minutes later, Victoria was squatting once more beside Haggis, softly stroking the panting, shaggy hide, whose rise and fall seemed now even more rapid, more indicative of the death spreading through the little animal's helpless body.

The veterinary had not stopped to change the high-necked and impressive white coat which all the attendants wore on duty. An anxious crease was between his brows, and he was carrying a small black bag not unlike a doctor's. "Where's the dog?" he asked tersely. She led him to the balcony. He squatted down beside Haggis, his big clean hands going swiftly over the dog's body with professional gentleness. Under the pressure of his fingers the dog gave a sudden choked cough, ducking her head as a human being does. The big hand went almost tenderly up to Haggis' throat and pressed. Haggis gave another cough, and a thin watery substance spurted from her mouth, falling with a wet flat sound onto the flagstones.

The veterinary looked up over his white-clad shoulder at Victoria. His face was no longer anxious, but set and remote. "This dog has been poisoned," he said.

TRY FOR EVERY CHANCE

A SKILLFUL declarer tries to avoid depending on some one development in order to make his contract. If he can play so as to give himself two chances, that is better. Sometimes he can make a whole series of efforts to build the tricks he needs, so that the success of any one of them would bring him home. If he is able to govern the order of events so as to attempt every possibility of tricks in the holdings, he can feel pretty good about himself if they all fail. At least he had then done his best.

Knowing North as an occasional bidder of short club suits, East opened the 4 of the suit, and the 7 forced the 10. South counted up a flock of chances to get the two tricks needed in addition to the seven in sight, the three in clubs, two in diamonds and two in hearts. He found how to try every chance.

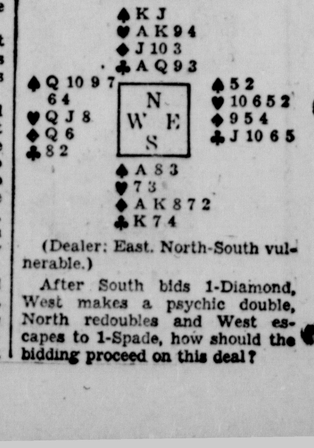

Beginning with hearts, he had two chances to get both extra tricks there. First he took the finesse, which failed, and West returned his club 2 to the A. Next he played the heart A and K, hoping for an even division, which failed, so he led a fourth heart to set up one trick he required.

This time West returned the diamond 2, and the play of the J made the third try for a break. But East covered and the A won. Next the heart 7 was scored. Now came a successful effort which partly built a trick, the finesse of the spade 9 against the 10, which managed to force the A. East led the diamond 6 to the 10 and K. The club K was scored, seeking a division. North also hoped West would discard a diamond and keep two spades. But he did not. When the spade 3 was led then to the Q and K, West was able to lead the diamond 8 to the 9 for the setting trick.

Count the tries North made—five of them—the heart finesse, heart break, diamond finesse, club division and effort for a spade trick. His conscience was surely clear, though he was set.

Church Women's Groups Hold Meetings Here

Officers Chosen, Other Business Transacted

Church group meetings comprised the attention of Circleville women Wednesday evening. An afternoon meeting was held at the Lutheran church with two groups from the Methodist church and a bible class from the Presbyterian church being held in the evening.

About 60 members and guests were present for the first meeting of the Lutheran Ladies Society for 1946. Mrs. Richard Fellmeth, new president, opened the meeting. Mrs. James Carpenter, society chaplain had for her devotions, 1st Corinthians 1-17 verses, followed by prayer.

Mrs. Clifton Reichelderfer read the topic from the Outlook, American Lutheran church, Partakers. An interesting discussion followed.

Mrs. Gladden Troutman was elected reporting secretary for the year. Yearly reports were given by Mrs. William Korn, secretary, Mrs. Arthur Adkins, treasurer and Mrs. Gladden Troutman, reading circle. Meeting closed with Lord's Prayer.

An interesting article was given by Mrs. Charles Walters and Mrs. Richard Fellmeth on the organization of the Ladies Society which was started in 1882 when Rev. J. Schneider was pastor at Circleville. The first meetings were held after church services, then later were held at homes of the members, but still later at the church. NEWS Behind the NEWS

one sixth of his trip in a day coach, pile out in the cold to another train to get his lower. Of this he did not complain.

His point of complaint was that the railroad did not offer him or any of the possibly 200 passengers the refund due them, not only for failure to supply Pullman but for the difference in basic fare due to the coach ride.

So also with food, the diner was out of nearly everything on the menu for breakfast except eggs, but the price of the breakfast was not reduced. The coffee served was cold, the service poor; customer resentment so high few tips were left.

The train was seven hours late at Chicago, which was a daily circumstance. I found many trains run from three to eight hours late as a custom, established for months and apparently to continue indefinitely.

This one generally averages about four hours behind schedule each day. Few connections are ever made, adding to the chaos, because neither hotels nor train reservations are available. People jam up, sleeping and eating in railroad stations, fighting for chances to get on the first train, fill the aisles, sit on seats, stand in lines for diners which may serve cold food because their steam table is broken down.

I sat up all night until 4 a.m. for a train which the porter told me was always that late (although the company erroneously kept reporting it only a little late to keep you in the station.)

"No one can tell when it will come through, you will just have to stay here and get it when it arrives," a station manager told me.

The historic demoralization of train service in Europe never reached these proportions. Common sad joke in the smoking rooms, which Mr. Truman should hear, was:

"Well, they say Mussolini at least made the trains run on time."

Only explanation of porters was: "It seems to me no one is trying to make them run on time now."

The country is much in that same low spirit.

WESTROPE BANNED FROM CALIFORNIA RACE TRACKS

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 10—Jockey Jackie Westrope, the nation's leading rider in 1933, was afoot today after he was permanently banned from riding on California tracks.

The California horse racing board revoked Westrope's license yesterday after reviewing his ride last Aug. 18 aboard Ace Hudkins at Del Mar. He was accused of rough riding and fouling another entry.

"A wilful and deliberate foul," the board termed Westrope's ride on that day. The jockey was accused of deliberately pulling his mount into High Sierra in the third race.

After the race, Westrope was set down until Dec. 31. He had appealed for re-instatement and it was on that appeal that the board acted yesterday.

ILLINI TO PLAY OHIO SATURDAY

Olsen's Five Seeking Second Victory Over Illinois Before Road Trip

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—Still reeling, somewhat, from the loss of their towering center and captain, Arnold Risen, the Ohio State University cagers will play their fifth straight home game Saturday night against Illinois.

The Buckeye basketeers, who face a rugged task in preserving their championship hopes, will take to the road following the clash with Coach Doug Mills' flashy quintet. Indiana, Purdue, and Michigan will be the next attractions for the Scarlet, all on foreign courts.

Ohio State, with Risen then in the lineup, defeated Illinois December 15 at Champaign, 50 to 46. The Illini followed by losing a two-pointer to the Champion Iowa Hawkeyes, but since then have displayed improved form.

Coach Harold Olsen is expected to stick to the starting five of Bob Bowen, Ray Snyder, Jack Underman, Paul Huston, and Warren Amling. Front-line replacements are Warren Wells, Tom Watson, Charley Kuhn, Bill Biel, and Wilbur Johnston.

The Illini have two lettermen guards in Jack Burmaster and Jim Seyler. Two other lettermen, Leo Godvalis and Jake Staab, have not been able to make the first five, the quintet being rounded out by Freshmen Ray McClure, Bob Doster, and Bob Rowe, six feet, 7 inch center.

Illinois has a young, but fast and smart team and is expected to make the Bucks play to the hilt to win.

In 50 conference engagements since the Bucks entered the league, Illinois has won 33, compared to 17 for the Scarlet.

ARMY CAGE TEAM STARTS WITH EASY VICTORY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 10—With a lot of help from the same cleated crew that galloped to national football supremacy, Army's basketball Cadets were off to a fine start today in defense of their eastern supremacy in the court sport.

The Cadets opened their season yesterday with a 70 to 38 victory over Swarthmore for their 30th victory in 31 starts over a three year period.

More than 2,000 Cadets were on hand to see football assistant Coach Stuart Holcomb make his debut as basketball mentor, taking over for the late Ed Kelleher, who died last Summer during a U. S. O. tour in Germany. Holcomb had seven football players on his squad. They were Glen Davis, Hank Foldberg, Arnold Tucker, Jim Rawers, Dick Walterhouse, Barney Poole, and Bob Folsom.

Rawers, a reserve end, paced the Cadet basketeers from his center position with 10 points on four goals and two free throws. The high point player was Claude Fausnaugh, Swarthmore's only offensive threat, who made 20 points on nine goals and two free shots.

The pronunciation of the name of the state of Arkansas is Ar-kan-saw, but the Arkansas River is pronounced Ar-kansas.

SIX GAMES ON FRIDAY NIGHT CAGE SCHEDULE

Tigers Working Hard To Get Ready For Hillsboro; County Clubs Busy

A full schedule of basketball games will be presented in Circleville and Pickaway county Friday night.

While the CHS Tiger varsity and reserve teams are playing hosts to Hillsboro teams in a South Central Ohio league game at Roll and Bowl, 10 Pickaway county teams will be playing league games.

The Tiger varsity went through a long hard scrimmage Wednesday night as Coach John Daugherty sought a winning combination in preparation for the visit of the Indians. Various combinations were used as he sought a starting five that could click.

Some changes in the starting lineup may be made Friday because of the fact that the Tigers have failed to win in two league games and two non-league games to date.

The reserve game is set for 7 p. m. with the varsity clubs clashing at 8:15, p. m.

New Holland, unbeaten in league play, will run into stiff competition at Williamsport Friday night. The Deercreek club showed lots of power last week defeating Walnut.

Another good game will be played at Ashville with Perry as the visiting team. The Ashville club has been improving in recent games and may hand Perry its first league defeat.

Monroe goes after another victory at Walnut. The big Monroe club has lost only to Junction City this season.

In other games Darby plays at Saltcreek and Jackson goes to Washington.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

one sixth of his trip in a day coach, pile out in the cold to another train to get his lower. Of this he did not complain.

His point of complaint was that the railroad did not offer him or any of the possibly 200 passengers the refund due them, not only for failure to supply Pullman but for the difference in basic fare due to the coach ride.

So also with food, the diner was out of nearly everything on the menu for breakfast except eggs, but the price of the breakfast was not reduced. The coffee served was cold, the service poor; customer resentment so high few tips were left.

The train was seven hours late at Chicago, which was a daily circumstance. I found many trains run from three to eight hours late as a custom, established for months and apparently to continue indefinitely.

This one generally averages about four hours behind schedule each day. Few connections are ever made, adding to the chaos, because neither hotels nor train reservations are available. People jam up, sleeping and eating in railroad stations, fighting for chances to get on the first train, fill the aisles, sit on seats, stand in lines for diners which may serve cold food because their steam table is broken down.

I sat up all night until 4 a.m. for a train which the porter told me was always that late (although the company erroneously kept reporting it only a little late to keep you in the station.)

"No one can tell when it will come through, you will just have to stay here and get it when it arrives," a station manager told me.

The historic demoralization of train service in Europe never reached these proportions. Common sad joke in the smoking rooms, which Mr. Truman should hear, was:

"Well, they say Mussolini at least made the trains run on time."

Only explanation of porters was:

"It seems to me no one is trying to make them run on time now."

The country is much in that same low spirit.

WESTROPE BANNED FROM CALIFORNIA RACE TRACKS

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 10—Jockey Jackie Westrope, the nation's leading rider in 1933, was afoot today after he was permanently banned from riding on California tracks.

The California horse racing board revoked Westrope's license yesterday after reviewing his ride last Aug. 18 aboard Ace Hudkins at Del Mar. He was accused of rough riding and fouling another entry.

"A wilful and deliberate foul," the board termed Westrope's ride on that day. The jockey was accused of deliberately pulling his mount into High Sierra in the third race.

After the race, Westrope was set down until Dec. 31. He had appealed for re-instatement and it was on that appeal that the board acted yesterday.

ILLINI TO PLAY OHIO SATURDAY

Olsen's Five Seeking Second Victory Over Illinois Before Road Trip

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—Still reeling, somewhat, from the loss of their towering center and captain, Arnold Risen, the Ohio State University cagers will play their fifth straight home game Saturday night against Illinois.

The Buckeye basketeers, who face a rugged task in preserving their championship hopes, will take to the road following the clash with Coach Doug Mills' flashy quintet. Indiana, Purdue, and Michigan will be the next attractions for the Scarlet, all on foreign courts.

Ohio State, with Risen then in the lineup, defeated Illinois December 15 at Champaign, 50 to 46. The Illini followed by losing a two-pointer to the Champion Iowa Hawkeyes, but since then have displayed improved form.

Coach Harold Olsen is expected to stick to the starting five of Bob Bowen, Ray Snyder, Jack Underman, Paul Huston, and Warren Amling. Front-line replacements are Warren Wells, Tom Watson, Charley Kuhn, Bill Biel, and Wilbur Johnston.

The Illini have two lettermen guards in Jack Burmaster and Jim Seyler. Two other lettermen, Leo Godvalis and Jake Staab, have not been able to make the first five, the quintet being rounded out by Freshmen Ray McClure, Bob Doster, and Bob Rowe, six feet, 7 inch center.

Illinois has a young, but fast and smart team and is expected to make the Bucks play to the hilt to win.

In 50 conference engagements since the Bucks entered the league, Illinois has won 33, compared to 17 for the Scarlet.

ARMY CAGE TEAM STARTS WITH EASY VICTORY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 10—With a lot of help from the same cleated crew that galloped to national football supremacy, Army's basketball Cadets were off to a fine start today in defense of their eastern supremacy in the court sport.

The Cadets opened their season yesterday with a 70 to 38 victory over Swarthmore for their 30th victory in 31 starts over a three year period.

More than 2,000 Cadets were on hand to see football assistant Coach Stuart Holcomb make his debut as basketball mentor, taking over for the late Ed Kelleher, who died last Summer during a U. S. O. tour in Germany. Holcomb had seven football players on his squad. They were Glen Davis, Hank Foldberg, Arnold Tucker, Jim Rawers, Dick Walterhouse, Barney Poole, and Bob Folsom.

Rawers, a reserve end, paced the Cadet basketeers from his center position with 10 points on four goals and two free throws. The high point player was Claude Fausnaugh, Swarthmore's only offensive threat, who made 20 points on nine goals and two free shots.

SALTCREEK FIVE SCORE INITIAL WIN OF SEASON

Saltcreek township cagers, playing their first home game of the season, scored their first victory Wednesday night, downing Washington 40-18.

SIX GAMES ON FRIDAY NIGHT CAGE SCHEDULE

Tigers Working Hard To Get Ready For Hillsboro; County Clubs Busy

A full schedule of basketball games will be presented in Circleville and Pickaway county Friday night.

While the CHS Tiger varsity and reserve teams are playing hosts to Hillsboro teams in a South Central Ohio league game at Roll and Bowl, 10 Pickaway county teams will be playing league games.

The Tiger varsity went through a long hard scrimmage Wednesday night as Coach John Daugherty sought a winning combination in preparation for the visit of the Indians. Various combinations were used as he sought a starting five that could click.

Some changes in the starting lineup may be made Friday because of the fact that the Tigers have failed to win in two league games and two non-league games to date.

The reserve game is set for 7 p. m. with the varsity clubs clashing at 8:15, p. m.

New Holland, unbeaten in league play, will run into stiff competition at Williamsport Friday night. The Deercreek club showed lots of power last week defeating Walnut.

Another good game will be played at Ashville with Perry as the visiting team. The Ashville club has been improving in recent games and may hand Perry its first league defeat.

Monroe goes after another victory at Walnut. The big Monroe club has lost only to Junction City this season.

In other games Darby plays at Saltcreek and Jackson goes to Washington.

BING BEING SUED

Kraft Foods Company has filed suit for declaratory judgment and injunction in New York against Bing Crosby. The complaint alleges that Crosby has refused to continue his apppearances on its radio show, the Kraft Musical Hall contrary to agreements with the company. John H. Kraft, president of Kraft Foods Company, said today, "The contract originating in 1937 provided for Bing's radio services during that year with options to Kraft to renew the contract each year into 1950. We have exercised these options to date and have notified Bing of our exercise of the option for 1946. However, Bing claims that there is no longer any agreement enforceable against him, and Kraft has filed this suit in order that the court can determine whether these contracts are still binding and enforceable."

TWO-TIMING WOMEN

Two-timers are not always blondes as some gentlemen contend. Proof of this is found in Tommy Tucker's orchestra which will be on "Spotlight Bands" Friday. Tucker's girl-singing trio, "The Three Two-Timers," is comprised of Janet Dinnell, Gladys Gayle and Mary Ann Wayne and each is a stunning brunette.

"JOE—A HAPPINESS THING"

One of the most unusual songs of recent years is Helen Forrest's choice for her featured ballad, when she sings "Happiness Is A Thing Called Joe", on the Saturday broadcast of "The Dick Haymes Show". Introduced originally by Ethel Waters in the picture "Cabin In the Sky", the song is scheduled for the melodious Forrest treatment.

"SOBBIN' WOMEN"

"The Sobbin' Women," adapted from Stephen Vincent Benet's short story, will be Helen Hayes' dramatic offering on the Textron Theatre, Saturday. Miss Hayes plays the role of "Milly," bound girl who marries into the mountain family of the "terrible Pontipees." Throughout the hills, the seven Pontipee brothers are looked upon as fearsome creatures. Milly, though, finds her new husband, the eldest of the Pontipee boys not so fearsome.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Book and movie fans of "The Lost Weekend," the popular expose of alcoholism, will be treated to another dramatization of the same subject, on the science series, "Exploring the Unknown," Sunday. Titled "Alcohol," the drama will trace its history and tell exactly why it makes a person drunk.

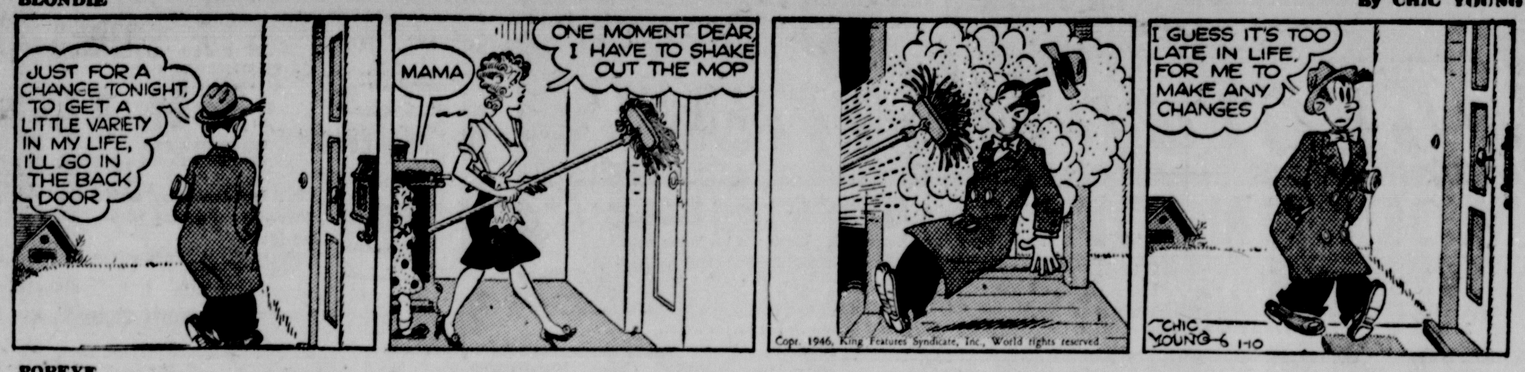

It's really a small world, when three men can get together in Moscow and prevent another man from blowing out candles on a birthday cake in New York. Phil Baker's planned celebration of the beginning of his fifth year on "Take It Or Leave It" was postponed December 30, because his broadcast time was taken by Secretary of State James Byrnes, for a report on the Moscow conference. Baker, however, got to celebrate the anniversary last Sunday with Gregory Ratoff as guest. Ratoff when asked how Russians would know about Indians got red in the face.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are really going all out for children with their Lou Costello, Jr., Youth Foundation. Now comes word that Abbott is also on the Masonic committee to supply films and projectors to fifteen hospitals for crippled children.

"Amos 'n' Andy" subscribe to the theory that fame is fleeting. "If you don't believe it," they say, "just take a look at the increasing number of loose-leaf autograph books that are now being used!"

ROSS MAY HAVE 2 CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

Mayor Brown And Rep. Dunkle May Seek Nomination On GOP Ticket

Two Chillicotheans may oppose Dr. Walter Brehm of Logan for reelection as congressman from the 11th district in the May Republican primary, according to reports from Chillicothe.

Harold H. Brown, who broke records by taking the oath as mayor of Chillicothe for the fifth time, looms as one aspirant for the nomination. Mayor Brown has openly announced that petitions for his candidacy have been sent to all counties in the district, including Pickaway county.

The other possible aspirant is Robert W. Dunkle, former two-term councilman at Chillicothe and now serving his second term in the Ohio legislature. Dunkle stated that he has not gone so far as to prepare petitions for his candidacy, but that he was "on the fence" nevertheless.

Friends of both Mayor Brown and Rep. Dunkle say they look for no race between the two for the nomination, and point to their longtime political friendship. They anticipate a get-together and amicable decision in advance of the meeting of county chairman with district committee heads, Thomas A. Renick, of Circleville, and Mrs. Loy E. Hoyt of Chillicothe.

Mr. Renick has announced that a meeting will be held in advance of the primary deadline. At Chillicothe he was quoted as saying he was unaware that Mayor Brown was circulating petitions or that Rep. Dunkle contemplates running.

Mr. Renick asserted he had received definite word that Congressman Brehm would be a candidate for renomination, the article stated. He said he had been told that Mr. Brehm is recuperating in a Washington, D. C. hospital, thus explaining the congressman's failure to visit his district thus far in this crucial time of pre-election contact making.

PAYNE ISSUES CHALLENGE TO LAUSCHE AND HERBERT

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 10—Albert E. Payne, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, has challenged Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Thomas J. Herbert of Cleveland, contender for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, to debate issues of the campaign.

Payne offered to argue any question of public interest and to allow his opponents to select the subject for discussion.
